February 2022 Newsletter

In this newsletter, we announce this year's internal funding opportunities for faculty which include Collaboration Funds and two one-time awards . The overall goal of these opportunities, which were created in response to feedback from faculty, is to support and promote the innovative and transformative work that the faculty conducts. You can find information about the opportunities in the "Internal Funding" section of this newsletter as well as on the Research@TC website. Additionally, stay tuned for an email announcement about the 2022 Dean's Faculty Diversity Research Awards Program & Fellowship Program for Teaching and Diversity that will be coming out shortly.

Also, the Research Infrastructure Improvement Committee has been hard at work. Current goals include mapping the pre- and post-award processes and addressing any concerns that have been identified. Additionally, the Committee is investigating several online platforms for the purpose of streamlining and facilitating the award-management process. We hope to have a new platform in place by the fall.

FOUNDATIONS and NONPROFITS

Program Officers from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the Russell Sage Foundation, and the Spencer Foundation discuss What Investigators Should Know about Grant Seeking from Private Foundations.

The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine has released a new report entitled: "Educational Pathways for Black Students in Science, Engineering, and Medicine: Exploring Barriers and Possible Interventions," Proceedings of a Workshop (2022).

GOVERNMENT

U.S. Department of Education

The Institute of Education Sciences (IES) is funding four research methods training programs that will be held this summer. The workshops train education researchers to expand and enhance their methodological skills. The training workshops include:

Evidence-based Intervention Training for Education, June 21-24 and follow-up coaching will be provided during the academic year.
Deadline to Apply: Apr 15, 2022

Economic Analysis: This program will hold two workshops. The first is a 3-day training (July 6-8) designed for state and local analysts who support significant policy decisions and the allocation of educational resources within and across districts. The second is a 5-day training (July 11-15) designed for education researchers who are undertaking or planning to undertake cost-effectiveness and benefit-cost analyses in education.

Deadline to Apply: Mar 31, 2022

Cluster-Randomized Trials: This program provides training on carrying out rigorous evaluations of the impact of education interventions including planning, implementing, and analyzing data for cluster-randomized experiments. The workshop will be held June 20 - 30.
Deadline to Apply: March 18, 2022

Meta-analysis: This program will train researchers in state-of-the-art meta-analytic techniques. The workshop will be held July 24 -30.
Deadline to Apply: March 31, 2022

Also, IES released three Restricted Use Files on U.S. Adult Skills for Trend Analysis with PIAAC:

- National Adult Literacy Survey (NALS) 1992, household and prison samples
- International Adult Literacy Survey (IALS) 1994, U.S. sample
- Adult Literacy and Lifeskills Survey (ALL) 2003, U.S. sample

The National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) released:

- Private School Universe Survey (PSS): Public-Use Data File User's Manual for School Year 2019–2018
- SY 2020-21 Common Core of Data Universe Files and Summary Tables
- International and Computer Information Literacy Study (ICILS) 2018 U.S. Public- and Restricted-use Data Files and U.S. Technical Report and User's Guide

The National Center for Special Education Research (NCSER), in conjunction with the University of Oregon, has announced a Research Training Institute on Advanced Single-Case Research Design and Analysis. The purpose of the training is to increase the national capacity of education researchers to design and conduct single-case experiments and to build expertise for analyzing the resulting data.
July 12–16, 2022.
Deadline to Apply: March 15, 2022

National Science Foundation
The National Science Foundation (NSF) will provide an informational webinar on February 25, 1:00-2:00 PM EST about the Future Manufacturing solicitation to fund research about the global manufacturing ecosystem. A recording and transcript will be posted after the webinar.

U.S. Department Of Health & Human Services
The Office Of Planning, Research & Evaluation (OPRE) announced a new report, The Pathways Clearinghouse Guide for Researchers, from the Pathways to Work Evidence Clearinghouse. The guide "is for researchers conducting rigorous evaluations of interventions that aim to improve employment outcomes, reduce employment challenges, and support self-sufficiency for people with low incomes."
